Dear UW medical students,

Earlier this month, UW Medicine announced work-related travel restrictions. Those travel restrictions have now been lifted.

Effective immediately:

1. UWSOM medical students may travel to conferences, including those sponsored by the University of Washington School of Medicine.
2. UWSOM medical students may return to international travel for UW-approved experiences in spring quarter provided they complete all UW travel registration requirements. Students should contact their program advisors for more information on UW travel registration requirements (<https://www.washington.edu/globalaffairs/global-travelers/travelregistry/>).
3. Visiting medical students may complete virtual and in-person rotations.

If you have any questions, you may reach out to me, suzaalle@uw.edu.
