

2024 NYU/Bellevue Emergency Medicine Summer Medical Student Fellowship for Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion

The Ronald O. Perelman Department of Emergency Medicine at the NYU Grossman School of Medicine (NYU Langone Health & Bellevue Hospital Center) is pleased to sponsor the 6th Annual Emergency Medicine (EM) Summer 2023 Medical Student Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Fellowship. We are committed to promoting diversity within the field of EM and our goal is to provide motivated & interested pre-clinical medical student (rising MS2s) with an in-depth exposure to EM early on in medical school education.

We encourage all students (currently in their 1st year of medical school) who have demonstrated a commitment to the diverse practice of medicine and are interested in the field of Emergency Medicine to apply to our 4-week Summer Fellowship. We offer 5 funded positions, which will provide fellows with NYU housing, travel to New York City (up to $500) and a stipend of $500. All interested individuals are welcome to apply. Students from underrepresented backgrounds, including but not limited to those who identify as Black or African American, Latinx, Native American, Native Pacific Islander, or Native Alaskan, are encouraged to apply.

Program Opportunities:

Didactic: Fellows will participate in procedure workshops, simulation-based health education sessions, social medicine initiatives, ultrasound workshops, resident conference, journal club, lectures given by our faculty and residents, toxicology rounds, pediatric EM rounds, teaching sessions with high school students, & a Wilderness Medicine outing.

Clinical: Each student will be paired with an EM faculty preceptor & resident whom s/he will shadow on shifts. Students will be exposed to tremendous diversity in clinical pathology & patient populations by rotating through the different hospitals within our academic center, including our tertiary care center at NYU Langone Health, the country's 1st public hospital at Bellevue (Level 1 Trauma Center), & NYU Brooklyn (Level 1 Trauma Center).
