

Student Organization Reference Table

Organization Type	Description
Service Learning	Our Service Learning and Community Engagement programs strive to enrich health sciences education by providing our students with opportunities to hone their skills while addressing the health needs of our under-resourced communities. We seek to foster the joy of service in our students who are preparing for lives of civic and social responsibility in an increasingly diverse and complex global society. These goals could not be achieved without strong community partnerships, dedicated supervising providers, and mutual collaboration within our six health sciences schools.
Interest Group	Student interest groups provide a platform for students to connect, collaborate, and engage in meaningful discussions around shared passions, hobbies, or academic pursuits. These groups foster a sense of community, encourage personal and professional growth, and create opportunities for networking, learning, and leadership development.
Affinity Group	Affinity groups meet quarterly to provide a supportive space to talk, be heard, connect and celebrate in community within our work environment. Registration is now open for the following groups, which were selected based on requests from colleagues who identify with these groups: Asian, Native Hawaiian, and Pacific Islander (ANHPI), Black, Hispanic and Latinx, LGBTQIA+, and Mixed Race. Everyone is welcome.
